Why are Employee Perceptions Important?

Employee satisfaction and commitment are critical to maintaining high performing organizations and attracting and retaining top talent

- The US Merit Systems Protection Board (MSPB) found significant relationship between employee engagement and mission accomplishment in federal agencies<sup>1</sup>. MSPB found that higher levels of employee engagement are correlated with:
  - Higher scores on the program results/accountability portion of OMB's Program Assessment Rating Tool (PART)
  - An employee's intent to leave the agency
  - An agency's average sick leave use
  - Levels of equal employment opportunity (EEO) complaint activity
- Numerous studies of private and public sector organizations have demonstrated a positive relationship between employee satisfaction and engagement and desired organizational outcomes including customer satisfaction, productivity, and profitability.<sup>2</sup>

Survey Methodology

Survey Overview

About the Survey: DIA fulfilled the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI) requirement to participate in the 2011 Intelligence Community Survey by incorporating survey items from the Intelligence Community Survey into the AHCS. The AHCS measures employee perceptions across the dimensions that drive employee satisfaction and identifies trends and changes over time.

Administration: The 2011 AHCS was open to all military and civilian DIA employees between April 4th and May 6th, 2011. Surveys were administered via a web-based technology; employees received an email notification that included a link to the survey on JWICS or SIPRNet.

Response Rate: The Agency response rate is 53%. Based on this response rate, the confidence level is 99% +/- 1.03%.

Data Analysis and Reporting: Data were collected and analyzed by DIA's Workforce Analytics Team (HCS-3). Analysis of DIA's Annual Human Capital Survey included means testing for statistical significance, trend analysis, sub-group analysis, regression analysis to identify key satisfaction drivers, and comparison with the 2011 Intelligence Community Survey, and OPM's Federal Employee Viewpoint Survey.

In this report, percent positive includes the top two points on the response scale: Agree and Strongly Agree, or Satisfied and Very Satisfied.

Note on Significance Testing

Statistically significant differences between DIA's annual scores are highlighted. Green cells indicate a significant increase from the previous year while red cells indicate a significant decrease from the previous year. Statistically significant differences between sub-groups are also highlighted; green font indicate a significantly higher score.

Statistical significance testing is conducted on mean scores, rather than percent positive scores. This data analysis method is utilized to account for changes in the full distribution of scores; conducting significant testing on percent positive scores limits analysis to the upper end of the distribution.

Given the selected analysis method, some small percent differences are statistically significant differences. This occurs when a considerable movement in scores at the lower end of the distribution causes a statistically significant mean difference but only a small difference in the percent positive score, which encompasses only the upper end of the distribution.

Similarly, some larger percent differences are not statistically significant. This occurs when considerable movement in scores on both ends of the distribution causes a large percent positive difference and a relatively stable mean score.

2011 Annual Human Capital Survey: NDIC Report

Key Indices

Key Indices

This year, six indices were calculated to aggregate related individual items together into one easy to understand score. Each index score is calculated by taking an average of all its individual component item scores.

OPM calculates four Human Capital Assessment and Accountability Framework (HCAAF) indices to track progress towards HCAAF objectives and the Conditions of Employee Engagement index to measure workforce engagement. ODNI calculates an IC Collaboration index to track levels of collaboration across the Intelligence Community.
